DuPont on Trial

Testimony continues this week in U.S. District Court at Laurel in the case of Strong vs. DuPont DeLisle. Plaintiff Glen Strong has alleged that pollution created by the DuPont DeLisle plant is the cause of his cancer.

Is there a 'cancer cluster?'

State health dept. based 'no elevated disease levels' claim on 1996-97 data

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
 Staff Writer

The courtroom is not teeming with spectators at a trial that will likely go down in history as the largest case ever to officially question the possible effects of dioxins on human health - and ask that the industry releasing the toxins be held responsible. But those few attending the proceedings return faithfully each day. A couple of regular reporters; a few locals who say they are curious; a family from the coast; a few friends and relatives of those involved in the trial.

Plaintiff's attorneys began presenting their case last week in an attempt to prove that toxic waste from the DuPont DeLisle plant has caused Bay St. Louis resident Glen Strong's multiple myeloma. Strong is one of 1,996 people who have filed a suit alleging that the plant has caused a variety of seri-

A Hancock County woman was slightly injured Monday evening in a one-person crash on Hwy. 90 at Waveland. According to a statement issued Tuesday by Waveland Police Chief James Varnell, "Officers arrived on the scene to find a vehicle in the east-bound lane lying on its side. The driver stated that she did not know what happened," but said she had possibly "fallen asleep." American Medical Response and Waveland Fire Rescue provided first aid at the scene, Varnell said, and AMR transported her to Hancock Medical Center for further treatment. The accident is under investigation by Officer Todd Blake. The driver's name has not yet been released.

K-9 officer 'follows his nose' after traffic stop

The nose of K-9 Dax led to the discovery of approximately 115 pounds of marijuana, following a bus traffic violation Wednesday morning, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Narcotics Division director Major Matt Karl estimated the street value of the marijuana at $125,000 to $150,000.

Karl said, "Lt. Jimmy Esposito made a traffic violation stop of a Tornado Bus Line bus around 1:45 a.m. Wednesday at mile market 15 on Interstate 10. The bus was traveling East."

"After speaking to the bus driver, Esposito was given permission by the driver to have Dax do an air sniff of the cargo area. Dax made a hit on a suit case containing the marijuana," Karl reported.

State, local officials fighting to save downtown Bay St. Louis post office

BY GEOFF BELCHER

If you're sad about the scheduled Aug. 31 of the downtown Bay St. Louis post office, you're not alone - everyone from state Rep. J.P. Compretta to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to the Bay St. Louis postmaster himself shares your sorrow.

The announcement triggered a backlash, spurring a flurry of calls downtown merchants have started a petition drive to keep the station open, and Compretta has issued a call to his fellow officials to get involved to save it.

"This is a blow to downtown Bay St. Louis and I am shocked at such a development," according to a statement issued yesterday by Compretta, a Bay St. Louis attorney who also serves

Blood drive to be held in Rutherford's honor

Hancock Medical Center will host a blood drive on Thursday, Aug. 25, in memory of John Rutherford for his dedication to saving others through blood donations. The drive will take place on the Red Cross bloodmobile at the front entrance of the hospital located at 149 Drinkwater in Bay St. Louis from 9:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m.

Donors will be able to sign a memory book that will be presented to his family. Blood donors will also receive a free t-shirt and will be entered into a drawing to win a one-week stay at the Verandas Condominium on Pensacola Beach. This $2 million dollar condo sleeps eight and donors will be automatically entered in the drawing just by giving blood.

Summer may be winding down but the critical shortage of blood donors continues as back to school activities and last minute vacations distract people from giving blood. Although the American Red Cross tries to keep a 3-day supply of all blood types on hand for patients in our region, supplies of blood types O Positive, O Negative, B Positive and B Negative are between a half-day to 1 day supply.

Donors who gave blood on June 29th at the Radio for Red Cross blood drive at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis are eligible to give again as of August 24th. For more information on giving blood, sponsoring a Red Cross blood drive or volunteer opportunities with the Red Cross, please call the American Red Cross at 896-2217 or 1-800-GIVELIFE. To schedule an appointment to donate blood, call Kathleen Quintini-Cook at 467-8683.

Additional fire department volunteers could help reduce fire insurance rates

ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

Many Hancock County residents could see reduced fire insurance rates in their districts with more volunteers in their fire departments, according to Brian Adam, Hancock County Emergency Management Agency (EMA) director.

Adam, Deputy Director Dee Lumpkin and Deputy Fire Marshall John Favaloro, in an interview Monday, explained reasons why fire insurance rates are so high.

Adam said, "When a district receives a lower rating, which is issued by the Mississippi Rating Bureau, it means a big drop in fire insurance premiums for homeowners."

Adam continued, "Many of the residents of the county's fire districts are complaining about paying high fire insurance rates. We have four out of the eight districts in which more volunteers could possibly help this problem."

Right now, Bayside, Clermont Harbor, Fenton and Post 58 Fire Department district residents could be helped with more man power, according to Adam. Bayside would need another station in addition to volunteers, because of the vast area it covers with its district.

Favaloro brought out the Hancock County Fire Services Fire Insurance Rating Plan issued by the State.

Currently Bayside, Clermont Harbor, Fenton, West Hancock Post 58 and Leetown Fire Departments are rated as Class 10's.

If their rating was reduced to a Class 9, it would mean a 16% reduction for masonry and brick homes and a 20% reduction for wood frame residences.

Kiln Volunteer Fire Department is rated as a Class 9. A drop to a Class 8 would mean a rate reduction of 40% for masonry and brick homes and a 46% reduction for wood frame residences.

Kiln was tested last year for a chance to move to a Class 8 rating, "But the water system for the commercial area was not sufficient the rating bureau said," Adam allowed.

"This week West Hancock's district will be tested by the State for a possible move from a Class 10 to a Class 9, Adam reported.

The other district, East Hancock County Fire District is rated Class 8, Adam said, adding, "East Hancock has a tremendous water system. Leetown, which has a great volunteer network, would need at least two more stations to receive a Class reduction, because of the vast area it covers, Adam reported.

Tim Kellar, Hancock County Administrator said, "For folks residing in rural areas, volunteer fire departments are very important. Now, most of the roads are hard surfaced, there is better drainage systems, and now one of the problems facing many homeowners is high fire insurance rates."

"Volunteers are the life blood of rural fire departments. This does not mean just for those who fight fires, but there are a lot of other jobs volunteers are needed, such as administrative, radio operators, etc.," Kellar added.

Kellar continued, "Folks who are possibly interested in learning more about their district's fire department, may want to stop by, speak to the chief, or attend a station meeting. They may find some way they too, can become a volunteer."

A lot of things goes into how a district is rated, such as water supply, fire department, fire service communication and fire safety control. There is a point system each district is graded on. Water supply and fire department rate the vast majority in the point system. Volunteers are counted in the fire department area.

"Many think all volunteers just go to fires, but that is not the case," Favaloro said.

There are various functions performed by fire department volunteers.

Volunteers are also needed to answer telephones, type-up reports, as there is a lot of paperwork for the districts, keeping up with inventory, medical responses, chemical responses, etc., Lumpkin reported.

A volunteer must be age 18, or older, at the same time, Leetown, Kiln and West Hancock also have Junior Programs for ages 14 to 17.

Becoming a volunteer fire fighter responding to fires does require training. There are two hour classes on a monthly basis, leading up to a total of 48 hours to be certified. Some of the course are 12 hours, and the state comes to the county to conduct these.

The final testing of skill and grade testing are done at the Fire Academy in Jackson.

Once certified, those who fight fires then are required to attend a minimum of two hours of classes at their county a month.

"One thing I can say, and that is all of our Volunteer Fire Departments have up-to-date equipment. This goal has been reached through Grants and hard work by Fire Chiefs and County leaders, and most important of all, dedicated volunteers," Adam emphasized.

Adam continued, "If you reside in of the county's eight fire districts and would like more information on how you can help, give the Hancock Emergency Management Agency a call at 228-467-9226, or call your district volunteer fire chief.

* Bayside, Chief Jennifer Favaloro, 228-467-5020.

* Clermont Harbor, Chief Charlie Jackson, 228-467-3345.

* West Hancock, Chief Kim Jones, 228-533-7847.

The Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, in addition to the Community of Diamondhead, all have paid fire departments.

Adam ended the interview by saying, "Join your District Fire Department, and your help could help reduce the rates you pay for fire insurance."

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

HMC wants your blood!!!

Today, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., there will be a special Blood Drive at Hancock Medical Center In Memory of J.D. (Big John) Rutherford.

Now as many of you know Big John was a longtime trustee at HMC in addition to being the first Hancock County Blood Bank chairman and served in that position for over a quarter of a century.

If you or a family member needed blood, Big John was the person to contact.

Anyway, in the earlier years there were blood drives that netted over 200 units.

Wouldn't it be great, if In Memory of Big John, a 200 plus drive could take place today.

Donors will also have the honor of signing a memory book that will be presented to the Rutherford family.

If you are able, your blood is needed today at this special blood drive.

High school football season is here! Area teams are set for action Friday night.

Big action should take place Friday night at Brent Favre Stadium, the home of the Hancock North Central Hawks, as they play host to the Tigers of Bay High.

This is an across the county rivalry for many years and what a way to start the season for both the Hawks and Tigers. I am sure that Hancock head coach Walt Esslinger will have his Hawks ready to go, while at the same time, Bay High head coach Brennan Compretta will have the Tigers roaring too.

My suggestion to anyone going to the game that wants a seat, get their early, as Hawks stadium should be packed for this season opener.

While in Bay St. Louis, the St. Stanislaus Rockachaws will play host to Wilkerson County at Brother Philip stadium for their season opener.

Stanislaus will be out to try and continue the success they had on the gridiron last season with a 9-2 overall record. In division play, SSC was a perfect 6-0.

Rockachaw head coach Casey Wittman's team marks the 90th football season for the Bay St. Louis high school.

From the 2004 team, the Rockachaws lost several to graduation, which included four to Division I football scholarships.

The Rocks would like to keep last season's fortunes rolling and should be ready for Wilkerson County.

Just across the Bay, the Pass Christian Pirates will open the season away with a visit to Florence High.

The Pirates have to forget about last season and head coach Kelly Causey feels Pass Christian has had some good practices and are ready for some victories.

This will mark

QUOTES--PAGE 5A

Tide of public opinion starting to turn

With George Bush busy-ing himself whacking underbrush and biking at the Crawford ranch so as not to face Iraqi War gold star mother Cindy Sheehan; and Congress laughingly on its Labor Day vacation, at least several state governments around the country have livened up political news in the August doldrums. In Ohio and Kentucky, each state's Republican governor and their cohorts have run afoul of state laws in various degrees. And in Pennsylvania, the future is riding on his November ballot initiatives giving him power to bypass angry public uproar by voting itself a whopping pay raise.

Never to be overlooked is the "nation" of California, where the state's General Assembly and muscleman Arnold Schwarzenegger are back into the same kind of budget deadlock that brought Ahnuld into office three years ago.

Schwarzenegger, who was put into office in 2003 after California voters recalled Democratic Gov. Gray Davis, has seen his initial approval ratings plummet. Now his November ballot initiatives giving him power to bypass the General Assembly to cut spending, reshape legislative districts and change teacher tenure requirements.

Maybe we should be thankful for the relative political quiet that has prevailed back here in Mississippi, save, perhaps, for Trent Lott's memoir "Herding Cats: A Life In Politics" that damns Bill Frist of Tennessee and gives Bush a mild slap for Lott's fall from GOP grace.

Lott's entry into the World of Letters (?) meantime is viewed by some as a tip-off that he is really not running for reelection next year.

In Ohio, Gov. Bob Taft, descendant of a U.S. president, has been nailed for 52 violations of state ethics laws for taking free gifts of dinners, golf trips and hockey tickets and not reporting them.

An Ohio judge fined him $6,000 and ordered him to write an apology to the people of Ohio. The ethics law in Ohio is tougher than Mississippi's on office-holders accepting free gifts. Theirs puts a $75 lid on gifts. Ours has none, only than to ban any gifts taken in connection with official duty.

But Taft's ethics trouble (earlier this year he had gotten the lowest approval rating of any governor in a nationwide poll) was worsened by the fact that he had repeatedly promised not to tolerate ethics violations in his administration. Some leading Republicans called on him to resign.

An even broader criminal

Update on the Hancock High School Band fiasco

You may know that Hancock High's band program, directed by Anthony McWright, has been placed under the athletic department. The school board says it hasn't, but Superintendent David Kopf and Principal Donnie Gholston say it has, and that's where it stands as of this writing.

This surfaced the week before school started. A week-long clinic was in progress to get the band ready for football season, but it as shut down in the middle of the fourth day and the kids were sent home - with no warning.

Also, there has always been after school marching practice twice a week a week during football season, but not now. David Kopf pretty much killed that when he "agreed" to withdraw Item 12 from the Board's agenda. Agreed? Who did he agree with? The Board? The Principle? As I understand it, Item 12 applied to all out-of-school activity, so I guess we won't have any Christmas concerts, parades, or anything else anymore.

It gets worse, and this is a little hard to believe. If you're familiar with Hancock High you know that its well set up. Among other things it has a football field, a practice field, and, in front of the band hall, a band practice field. Or was. I've heard that the football team has been told to takeover the band's field, and has. You might expect something like this from an unsupervised four year-old (my toys, you can't play with them!) But from adults who are supposed to care about our kids? They don't care about the kids. This is a power struggle and it seems like they find collateral damage acceptable as long as they get their way.

Don't sacrifice our homes for the almighty dollar

I live in Pass Christian and have done so for the past four years in a home we own. The reason we moved here from New Orleans was to escape the congestion and hectic way of life there. The natural beauty of this area should be considered sacred and kept the way our Creator made it or at the least, the impact of inevitable progress rigorously controlled and monitored to allow the integrity of our natural environment to prevail for future generations. It should not be irretrie-ably sacrificed for the sake of the almighty dollar!!!!

Additionally, it is hard to drive down Beach Blvd. now on a regular week-day with the congestion the way things are currently...I can't imagine adding such a huge complex and all the additional cars of new residents in that congested area. I think it would hurt the local businesses in the long run, not to mention tax the infrastructure and hamper the services the current residents receive.

Minor -- tide turns

Investigation in Ohio involves the Republican Party's top fund-raiser, Thomas Noe, who is accused of mismanaging state workers' compensation funds and diverting up to $4 million for his personal benefit.

The administration of Republican Gov. Ernie Fletcher in Kentucky has been reeling from a series of indictments that stem from violating the state merit system by giving jobs to Republicans.

So far, eight current or former Fletcher Administration people have been charged with misdemeanors, and one of them a felony.

Fletcher, who denounced the indictments by the state's Democratic attorney general as a "political witch hunt," has even threatened to use his pardon powers to quash any indictments coming out of the AG's investigation.

Newspaper editorial pages, bloggers and websites in Pennsylvania have been blasting the state legislature for passing in the dead of night on July 7 legislative pay raises ranging from 16 to 34 percent.

Lawmakers had slipped out of town on a two-month vacation after passing the pay raise, with no debate and without notifying the media.

To give themselves the pay hike, the Pennsylvania legislators crafted what they called "unvouchered expenses" to be paid out of $130 million socked away in a little-known legislative "leadership account" that is not part of state general fund.

The Pennsylvania "leadership account" is very much akin to the Senate and House contingency funds in Mississippi's Legislature which some legislative observers here have contended for years amounted to a virtual "slush fund."

What should especially raise questions is the inordinate amount that is put into the Mississippi Senate's contingency fund, relative to the one in the House. Though the Senate has only 52 members and the House 122, the Senate in recent years has asked for, and gotten, a larger appropriation for its contingency fund.

It should also be pointed out that expenditures from the House contingency fund for travel or trips to Jackson between sessions, must be approved through the House Management Committee.

The Senate has no management committee. It did, back in the 1980s and most of the 1990s but was dropped by the current Senate leadership of Lt. Gov. Amy Tucker and Senate President Pro Tem Travis Little. Now, the Senate Rules Committee supposedly clears contingency expenditures. But in reality,

Little, who is Rules Committee chairman, does it.

Lott went on NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday to plug his book, but he did a lot of back-tracking on criticisms he had written about Frist and Bush who he said signaled to him and several other senators his intent to invade Iraq and topple Saddam Hussein months before March, 2003.

He made no mention of "Meet the Press" of retiring from the Senate next year, but Lott-watchers on the Mississippi Gulf Coast say that the Pascagoula hasn't been appearing at events and occasions he normally would a year prior to election.

Plus the fact say some, U.S. Rep. Chip Pickering, reportedly Trent's anointed heir, has already begun to stash cash in a Senate campaign fund.

Plea to the postmaster: Please keep Bay St. Louis' downtown post office open

Dear Mr. Harrell:
I am sending this letter to you to express my dismay at your announcement of the closing of the Bay St. Louis Downtown Postal Station.

I am also sending a copy of this letter to our Congressman, our Representative (Speaker Pro-Tern) of the MS Legislature and to the Mayor of Bay St. Louis, as well as to each of the newspapers serving this city.

As a native and long time resident of Bay St. Louis, I am appalled at the announcement that the Downtown Postal Station is being summarily closed in less than two weeks.

This action is abrupt and without any information, discussion or input from us patrons being served by the Downtown Station.

The availability of service from the Downtown Station is in distinct contradiction to having to conduct any postal activity with or through the postal edifice located adjacent to the Waveland city limit - assuming that the land survey of that postal facility is accurate.

In view of the complete lack of any information concerning the closing one can only assume that Postal executives will claim justification for this closure as being dictated by "good business economics." Without delving into whether the initial relocation of the Bay St. Louis Main Post Office to the Waveland city limit was a good economic move for both patrons and the USPS, one can presume that the business economics involved in this closing likewise will be claimed to be of benefit to USPS; however, taking into consideration the expenses transferred to the Downtown patrons such as reprinting of materials to change P.O. Box numbers, travel costs to the new P.O. Box location conservatively calculated at approximately $250 per year per patron, and the inconvenience and/or impossibility of P.O. Box service to elderly patrons who currently walk to the Downtown Station all lead to the conclusion that the word "Service" in USPS has reached or exceeds any reasonable meaning.

Patrons must realize that the USPS is not a government agency but USPS must recognize that it is subsidized and protected by the federal government. Management of USPS should recognize that its quasi-governmental status is a reason for patrons to expect service at least comparable to its non-governmental competitors.

Having lived in the corporate world for many years and having some understanding of the logistics of postal operations I can envision that at a non-too-distant point in time the present Waveland Post Office will be closed in the name of economy and merged into the Bay St. Louis Post Office as a sub-regional postal center - which at a point in time will also be closed to patrons and merged into a Gulfport Regional Center.

For this to happen, plans will be formulated and implemented where deliveries will be made to groups of boxes - e.g., one group per city block or high density residences so as to further economize by reducing the number of mail carriers, etc.

One can only dream of additional measures that USPS might devise - apparently free of any citizen input such as is required of federal agencies to publish in the Federal Registry and provide hearings for interested citizens.

I suggest that these arbitrary changes will have significant socio-economic impact on the citizenry - with little short term economic gains by USPS.

Actually, it looks like they're jealous of Mr. McWright's success with the band program.

Kopf said that Gholston is doing all this to "free up some time," and he seems to agree with it. Here's an idea: let's ask (ask?) these guys to resign so that we can replace them with people who can handle the workload and who care about kids - that will free up a lot of time for them.

This needs to be resolved soon. Every day that this nonsense goes on is a day out of our kid's lives and those days can't be replaced - they're gone forever.

This won't go away by itself. They're hoping we'll lose interest in this so they can continue their game, and it is a game. They do something, we grumble but learn to accept it. They do something else, we accept that, etc., until they control us. That's not the way it is supposed to be. Its like boiling a frog. Throw a frog into hot water and he'll do all he can to get out. Put him in cold water and apply heat gradually and he'll let you cook him.

Wanna be a frog? Not me. I'm doing my part in this - how about you?

Clean & Beautiful

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee selected U-Store-It to receive the Clean & Beautiful Award. Betsy Ashman, beautification co-chair, right, made the presentation to McKenzie Kihneman, U-Store-It general manager and Cary Hammond maintenance man.

Volunteers needed for Annual Coastal Clean-up Saturday, September 17

The Beautification Committee of the Hancock Chamber is seeking volunteers to participate in the Annual International Coastal Clean-up on Saturday, September 17 at more than 12 sites throughout the county from 8 a.m. - 12 noon.

Ellis C. Cuevas, chairman of the Chamber Committee said, "Each year, we have more than 500 people who participate in this event to help clean up the marine environment." Cuevas said the Hancock County Board of Supervisors provides support through County work crews to support the volunteer efforts.

All residents are encouraged to take pride in Hancock County by participating in this clean-up or on their own at sites near their businesses and/or residences.

Supplies for the event are provided through the Marine Debris Task Force supported by the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources. Volunteers will begin the clean up at 8 a.m. and conclude some time after 12 noon. In years past, volunteers in Hancock County have collected more than 500 bags of debris weighing more than 7,700 pounds.

Some of the unique items found during past clean-ups were found at Ansley/Heron Bay where volunteers found an egret with a broken leg caught up by a hook on a fishing line. Volunteers immediately called WRANPS to save the bird.

Betsy Ashman of Hancock Insurance, co-chair of the event, said the clean-up will conclude with a cook-out for volunteers that starts at 10 a.m. at Washington Street and Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis, and at the Clermont Harbor Pier. Each year, this is sponsored by the Office of Congressman Gene Taylor, the Bay-Waveland Rotary Club, and da Beach House. This event is also sponsored by the Mississippi Marine Debris Task Force and the Hancock Chamber ous illnesses in themselves and family members.

DuPont -- trial continues

On Tuesday, expert witness toxicologist Robert Sawyer told jurors that people living in the United States and Europe are exposed to an average of 105 picograms of dioxins each day. Results from testing indicate that Strong has been exposed to an average of 305 picograms of dioxins per day from just two sources, Sawyer says -- the oysters that Strong loved to eat and through the dust in his house. Sawyer's estimate does not include other possible sources of contamination, such as the air Strong breathes or other foods, he told jurors.

A recent study performed by Dr. Ralph Elston and colleagues, published in the Journal of Shellfish Research, showed elevated levels of both dioxins and heavy metals in oysters and sediment samples in and around the St. Louis Bay where Strong was fond of fishing. DuPont attorneys were quick to point out that many of the samples from Elston's study were taken from areas in the Bay that were closed to commercial oyster fishing due to contamination by fecal coliform bacteria.

In other words, Strong would not have been eating the oysters from the most contaminated areas just west of the grassy point that is part of plant property, said defense attorney Monique Weiner. TCDD, a compound in Agent Orange, was found in sediment samples in these two areas.

But Elston said that other dioxins and dioxin-like compounds were found in all of the oyster and sediment samples, with the highest concentrations in the grassy point area and again in an area just south of the bridge along the western edge of the Bay near Bay St. Louis. This is due to migration patterns in the Bay which favor a general outflow along the Western shore, with a movement from west to east once out of the Bay, Elston said.

Though Elston admitted that the levels found in local samples were lower than the national average for the shellfish, he said that at the same time, those levels were rising in the St. Louis Bay area, while dioxin levels were decreasing in much of the rest of the country due to industrial controls.

Weiner also called Elston on three mistakes that he had made in calculations, one that underestimated WHO TEQ (toxic equivalency quotient) values; and two which over-estimated TEQ for two sediment samples taken in areas near the grassy point. The values were still high, Elston said, for those two points.

Testing for dioxin levels can be tricky, said Sawyer, because of the very different ways that the chemical is metabolized in each species. "The process is very species-specific," he said, and the method of exposure also greatly affects test results.

Inhaled gases clear the body very quickly, making blood sampling useless, Sawyer said. Some dioxin congeners clear the body very quickly also, he said, but there is a standard test, which can measure for chronic exposure. Blood tests for Strong, like most of the 60 local residents tested in the Bay St. Louis and DeLisle area, showed "a highly significant pattern of elevated dioxin levels in all of the three age groups tested," he said.

A British study showed a doubling and tripling of the incidence of cancers in people living from .7 to 2.2 kilometers from a site with releases of .1 grams of dioxins, Sawyer said. Last year DuPont DeLisle reported the release of .5 grams of the substance, but there is a controversy even among their own employees as to the accuracy of that number, with an inner office email report from Robert Girard which estimates 381 grams to be coming from an ore stack dryer at the plant. The date of the email is unclear.

"Dioxins induce a complex," said Sawyer. "And work similar to hormone binding. They promote certain DNA abnormalities to occur, primarily cancer. No other chemicals known to man have the ability to promote such a change at such low doses."

Sawyer said dioxins build over time in the human body.

"Take a full glass of water," he said. "If I were to drop peas in it, it would finally overflow. We have finally reached the breaking point."

Not only can he say with certainty that dioxins cause certain cancers, said Sawyer, but they also act to suppress the immune system, making people more susceptible to other cancers and diseases.

"Anyone who tells you dioxins are not carcinogens in humans is really at the fringe of science," he said.

Department of Health epidemiologist Mary Currier testified on Monday that she had gotten a call from State Representative Diane Peranich asking her to look into illnesses being reported in the DeLisle area. Currier said her department called area doctors (in the DeLisle area, not the Hancock County area), asking if they noticed any increased incidences of illnesses due to what could be environmental toxins.

They also looked at cancer data from the only years available, 1996 and 1997 in the Mississippi Cancer registry. There was nothing to compare the data to, Currier said, but they noticed no unusual numbers. Not finding any evidence of clusters or unusual illness, there was no follow-up done on the report, Currier said.

Also testifying on Monday was Dr. Richard Clapp, who told jurors that the number one cause of dioxin pollution was industrial production. Exposure to these dioxins speed up the process of other cancers and so raises the risk for all types of cancers, Clapp said. He cited several studies, which show greatly increased incidences of cancers in people exposed to dioxins.

The trial continues this week with former DuPont DeLisle employees, Strong and his family members expected to testify.

Postal -- p.o. closing

as Speaker Pro Tempore of the Mississippi House of Representatives. "This will cause a great inconvenience to both residents and businesses in our community, and I hereby call on the Postal Service to please reconsider this decision."

Compretta said he has also enlisted the help of 4th District U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor to get the Postal Service to reconsider.

"This will have a very negative impact on so many of our citizens," Compretta said. "I am amazed at the lack of input that the people of Bay St. Louis were allowed on this matter. Very little notice was given by the Postal Service to the patrons of this facility -- the ones who have provided it with business for so many years."

"To say that I am very, very disappointed about this is a major understatement," Compretta said. "I urge the Postal Service to reconsider and give us back our Post Office in downtown Bay St. Louis."

Harrell said yesterday that he's as upset about the move as anyone: "I really regret the whole thing. ... I want to keep it open. It wasn't my decision to close it."

Unfortunately, Harrell said, the U.S. Postal Service has changed its requirements for operating contract postal units (CPUs). As long as Ellis decided to continue her contract, Harrell said, she was grandfathered in and could keep the unit open. She had been set to resign in June, he said, but he persuaded her to stay on a little longer, hoping the extra time would allow him more leeway in convincing the USPS to make an exception. The bid didn't work.

Under the new guidelines, he said, in order to operate a CPU, it must be more than five miles from a main USPS branch; there must be a waiting list at the main branch for boxholders, which there is not in Bay St. Louis; and the average time waiting in line at the main branch must be in excess of five minutes. The Bay main branch averages 2.6 minutes, he said.

Still, Harrell said, "There are a lot of things that we can offer in the way of service."

For instance, anyone who would be inconvenienced by having to go all the way to the main branch for a post office box can have their mail delivered to their home; and stamps and parcel services are available by mail and on-line.

"I understand what everybody down there's going through," Harrell said, "but hopefully it won't be that big of a headache. ... We're still going to give good service."

Michael Carson, who owns the building where the Downtown Station is located, said he's also distraught over its closure, but is working with a private company to make sure the same kind of service is still offered in Old Town.

Magic bus

Karl continued, "The suit case did not have any identification and neither did the driver, or any passenger claimed the marijuana."

The marijuana was confiscated and it was tightly wrapped in 44 bricks sized small, medium and large.

Lt. Esposito is the Narcotic Division's Interdiction Officer, and this is the third confiscation of marijuana from a bus passing through the county this year, Karl stated.

Agent Ray Price is in charge of the investigation which continues.

Karl did say, "We are now seeking ways of possibly implicating bus companies, or drivers in these cases where there is no identification on the packages found to contain illegal drugs."

"Someone has to know these packages are on the buses," Karl added.

Elected officials deserve our praise for vision, investment

BY CHUCK BENVENUTI, CPA
CHAIRMAN, PARTNERS FOR STENNIS

Now is the time to say thanks.

This week, we heard the long awaited news that the NASA Shared Services will come to Hancock County at Stennis Space Center. After winning the national competitive bid, the project was delayed due to protests from others. Those protests have now been removed.

The citizens of Hancock County owe our elected officials a debt of gratitude for their vision to make this happen. The Governor, the Congressional Delegation, the Mississippi Legislature and the Board of Supervisors all worked together with the private sector to pool human and financial resources to make this opportunity reality.

The State of Mississippi passed a bond appropriation totaling $23.7 million to provide the building for the Shared Services Center. Special thanks to our Legislative delegation from Hancock County, in particular, Speaker Pro Tempore J. P. Compretta. Lockheed Martin supported Computer Sciences Corporation's proposal by offering interim facilities at Stennis while the new building is being constructed. And, the counties in Mississippi that are economically impacted by Stennis, also came forward with financial support to make the package complete.

This project is a prime example of what we can accomplish as a region when we work together.

This unprecedented cooperation among elected officials and the private sector did not stop at the Mississippi line. The State of Louisiana stepped up to the plate too with a $1 million training support package.

This Shared Services Center, due to be operational in October, will bring 450 jobs to Stennis with an average salary of $50,000. It will be a consolidation of activities currently being done across NASA in the areas of human resources, procurement, financial management and information technology operations.

While Stennis Space Center is physically located in Hancock County, Mississippi, it impacts the entire region, significantly serving as a source of employment and income. Admiral Tom Donaldson, director of Stennis Space Center, who led the team to secure the NASA Shared Services Center says more jobs are on the horizon. Conservatively, he is estimating more than 1,300 jobs will be created in the next two years alone.

As citizens, we have direct access to unique economic opportunities generated through Stennis. New residents will move to this region. They will need services that each of us can provide through our businesses. More local residents will be employed in higher paying jobs. All of this means business for the citizens of this region. How we take advantage of this growth is up to us.

Our elected officials have an awesome responsibility to make decisions on a daily basis that affect our quality of life and economic well-being. Oftentimes they hear the complaints, and rarely receive the accolades. This is one time when we all need to take a moment to stop our elected officials and simply say thanks for your vision. Thanks for making a difference for all of us, especially for the future of our children and grandchildren.

Jackson Hewitt® Income Tax Course Starts Soon

Enroll and learn how to prepare income tax returns!

"I signed up for the Jackson Hewitt Income Tax Course thinking maybe I could do my own taxes and save myself some money. I was so impressed with the course material and the tax knowledge of the instructors, I went on to become a tax preparer working for Jackson Hewitt Tax Service!" Said Julius Wright.

Julius is one of thousands of students who enroll in the Jackson Hewitt Tax Service® Income Tax Course, or ITC, a six-week program offered each fall in Jackson Hewitt Tax Service offices nationwide. This instructor led course is ideal for students who enjoy learning in a classroom environment. While the course provides students with the basics of individual tax preparation, it's the review of tax industry insights, "hidden" deductions and under-utilized tax advantages that make the course truly valuable.

*The Jackson Hewitt Income Tax Course gives you a better advantage... when you file your taxes because you learn about all the credits and deductions available to you," said Vonetta Wilson.

Ms. Wilson signed up for the Jackson Hewitt ITC when she was 17 years old, hoping to learn how to prepare her own taxes as she entered the work force for the first time. She did so well in the program that she decided to apply for a job as a Jackson Hewitt tax preparer.

The ITC is a 6-week program that meets for two three-hour sessions. Trained tax professionals lead each class and apply adult learning theories to teach participants how to complete the forms and schedules necessary to file an income tax return.

Tami Dowdle was very impressed with Jackson Hewitt's instructors whom she credited with being completely up to date on all the latest tax laws. According to Tami, the Jackson Hewitt Income Tax Course provides participants with an "understanding of taxes that works whether you're a professional or a homemaker."

The Jackson Hewitt Income Tax Course has helped college students, military spouses, stay-at-home parents, retirees, and many others acquire the tax knowledge necessary to prepare tax returns for themselves, their family and friends. Many even start a new career as Jackson Hewitt tax preparers.

For more information, please call 228-463-1040, or visit us online at www.jackson-hewitt.com.

*Completion of this course is neither an offer nor a guarantee of employment. Additional training or experience may be required. Most offices are independently owned and operated.

Hancock County 4-H Environmental Arts Camp entertains and informs

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Hancock County 4-H Youth Agent Margaret Howell, and the Diamondhead Youth Director, Kinta Bakken, held the first Hancock County Environmental Arts Camp June 21-23.

The three-day camp was enjoyed by thirteen youth and included educational information on Soil, Water, Forestry, and Recycling. Personnel from Mississippi State University Extension Service, Hancock and Stone County Soil and Water Conservation Districts conducted the educational material.

Hancock County Master Gardeners, Patrick LaNasa, Alice Holmes, JoAnn Vaz and Pat Terry, helped with the fun art projects corresponding to the educational subject matter.

Gwen Smith, Hancock County Extension Director, talked about forestry and soils and their importance to our environment. Joan Thomas, Hancock Extension Food and Nutrition Educator, spoke on food choices and helped the campers to make healthy snacks to eat. Suzette Jetton and Lance Middleton from the Stone County Soil and Water Conservation District, played water conservation games while explaining the need to preserve and conserve our water supply.

Kathy Bell, a Hancock County Master Gardener, talked about the importance of recycling. Mr. Bob Meith and Henry Geauthreaux of the Diamondhead VFW came and spoke about the care and display of the U.S. flag.

Fun arts and craft items were made to go along with the educational materials. Some of the items made were wind chimes from recycled cans and bamboo, rain sticks, patriotic flag wind socks, hummingbird feeders made from recycled water bottles and copper tubing, and wood and bead necklaces.

Dr. Glenn Hughes, MSU Extension Forester, made paper with the campers. Pictures were later painted on the paper. Dr. Hughes also demonstrated how to core a tree to determine the age. Campers were given a chance to use the tree borer. A nature walk and plant identification session was conducted by Margaret Howell, Mississippi Master Naturalist. Carolyn Sapio of Diamondhead showed the campers how to make jewelry pins out of recycled brown paper bags.

Preparations are underway for similar camps to be held in Diamondhead and Bay St. Louis next summer. Information about the 2006 camps can be obtained from the Hancock County Extension Office (228-467-5456).

Seminar on multiple sclerosis planned on the Coast Aug. 30

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Every day approximately 400,000 Americans wake up to face an incredible challenge: living with an unpredictable and often devastating disease, a disease that may rob them of significant physical and mental abilities, their livelihoods, their independence.

Multiple sclerosis can strike at any age, but most are diagnosed between the ages of 20-50. More women than men are affected, all in the prime of their personal and professional lives. Multiple sclerosis randomly attacks the central nervous system, wearing away control over the body making simple motions extremely difficult. MS is devastating because it is so very unpredictable. Symptoms range from imbalance and numbness to paralysis and blindness. There is no cure...yet.

The National MS Society in conjunction with Berlex Pharmaceutical Company is hosting a program entitled "Wellness and MS" with guest speaker Dr. Jonathan Calkwood. Dr. Calkwood is an Assistant Clinical Professor and Director of Neuro-Ophthalmology at LSU in New Orleans. He is also an Assistant Clinical Professor of the Department of Neurology and Ophthalmology at Tulane University. Dr. Calkwood is also Medical Director for the MS Centers of America in Slidell, LA as well as a volunteer for the National MS Society- Louisiana Chapter.

Dr. Calkwood will present on complimentary therapies including the disease modifying drugs, exercise, yoga and dietary needs. He will also discuss fatigue and the issues that surround it. The program will be held on Tuesday, August 30th at the Holiday Inn Airport on Highway 49 in Gulfport. Check in and refreshments begin at 6, and the presentation will begin at 6:30. For more information or to register, please contact the National Multiple Sclerosis Society at 1-800 FIGHT MS (1-800-344-4867).

Late-season marigolds cure tired landscapes

Late yesterday evening, I was surveying the landscape and looking at the results of being gone for almost a week. The conclusion is it is time to begin some late-season planting. If you are like me and ready for a colorful pick-me-up, then late summer- to early fall-planted marigolds could certainly be what is needed.

It's exciting to see what has happened with marigolds the last few years, and 2006 will mark a new era with hybrids. You may hear terms like French Marigolds (Tagetes patula) and African Marigolds (Tagetes erecta), and there are hundreds of varieties associated with each. There are numerous hybrids of the two, adding real confusion. You may find the name American associated with the African hybrids.

Here's something funny: The French Marigolds are from Mexico and Guatemala; the African Marigolds are from Mexico and Central America; and neither of those groups are Mexican Marigolds, which are of the genus Tagetes lucida and actually are from Mexico.

The French and the African Marigolds have the ability to really put on a show. While we may have paid more attention in recent years to the very large-flowered African selections like Inca, Marvel, Antigua and Perfection, there has to be something said for the power of the smaller French-flowered selections.

In the French Marigold group, you will find what are known as French Dwarf Crested types like Aspen, Bonanza and the Janie series. Then there is the French Dwarf Anemone series that includes Durango and Troubadour. Lastly, there are the French Fully Double types, such as the Aurora series. No matter which you choose, the colors are rich and vibrant.

In fall trials at the Truck Crops Branch Experiment Station near Crystal Springs, some of the best performers were Bounty Spry, Late summer- to early fall-planted marigolds can give gardens the pick-me-up of color they need. Use the complementary color of blue when growing marigolds in the orange to red color scheme, or violet when growing those in the yellow range.

Bounty Gold, Janie Flame, Safari Bolero, Aurora Red and Aurora Orange. To be perfectly honest, they all put on a show you would have been proud to have in your garden -- spring, summer or fall.

Fertile, well-drained soil and full sun are all that you need to make you look like a garden guru. Well, there might be a couple of other things. First, plant enough to make a real show. One jumbo six-pack isn't enough.

The next thing to remember is the color blue or violet. These are the best complementary colors. If you are growing those in the orange-to-red color scheme, then blue is the best choice as a companion plant. If you are growing those in the yellow range, then violet-to-purple colors may be the best, such as Purple Wave petunia. Don't forget that the oranges and yellows also work well together. This is called an analogous color scheme.

Marigolds also are great for containers. Try using New Wonder scaevola as a great cascading plant and maybe dwarf fountain grass as a taller plant.

To keep that flower production at full speed, feed with light applications of a 12-6-6 or balanced fertilizer about every six weeks. Deadheading the old flowers will keep them looking tidy and the flower production higher.

You may think of spider mites when it comes to marigolds. This dilemma occurs more often with spring-planted marigolds that get attacked in midsummer. Late summer- to fall-planted marigolds are less susceptible to spider mites infestations. Check your local garden center. Even if they don't have fresh marigolds in, they probably soon will or will at least have seeds that germinate quickly.

August 10, 1995 - Hancock County Tax Assessor Eddie Murtagh meets today with officials of Jubilee Casino and the casino's main landlord, the Cure family, to discuss a new tax protest. Murtagh said the Casino and Cures have filed objection to their assessment for 1966, although the basis of the objection is not clear. Jubilee leases some land from the Cures and owns some property outright. Meanwhile Murtagh is preparing to put Jubilee's property on the auction block August 28, based on the casino's failure to pay some $400,000 in taxes this year.

- The beachfront parking lot in downtown Bay St. Louis shrunk Monday while it is under construction. With very little discussion the board of Supervisors agreed to whack 30 spaces off the lot, leaving it the same size as another facility planned in Waveland. Project Engineer William Mitchell raised the possibility of down sizing the Bay St. Louis lot by saying there's been a question raised of whether 80 spaces are necessary for the lot being on Beach Boulevard and Washington Street.

August 8, 1985 - The good news for Highway 603 motorists is that there are fewer rocks now as the resurfacing job settles. The bad news is that those who have reported cracked windshields, broken headlights and dented cars apparently have no recourse. "We believe the problem is a 'road hazard,'" Rick Turner, assistant district engineer for the state highway department said. To try and prevent damage the highway department does post signs to the area warning motorists of the loose material on the road and recommending a slower speed, Turner said.

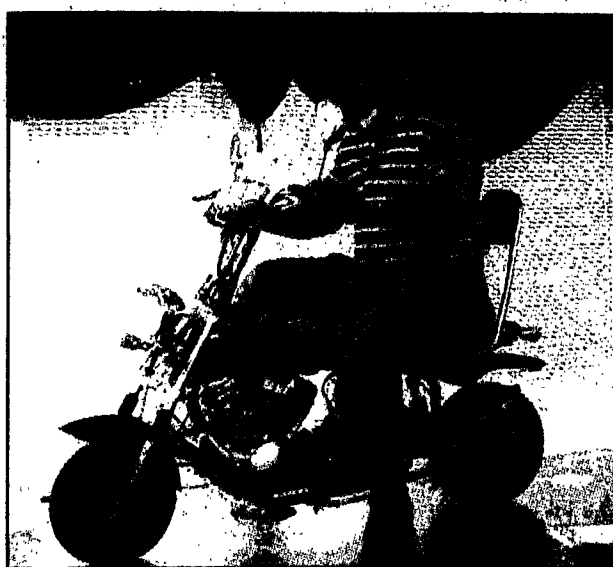

- The Hancock County Board of Supervisors is considering a request to fund employment of a full-time attendant at the county animal shelter. According to Beat 4 Supervisor Sam Perniciaro, who is a member of the County Animal Control Commission, a full-time attendant is needed at the shelter because the number of animals being brought in has increased. The cost of a full-time shelter employee would double the $200 a month the county already provides. In addition, the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are each being asked for $200 increase, Perniciaro said.

Dolph Kellar, Beat 2 Supervisor, moved to cancel proceedings moments after supervisors had approved to hike the county school mileage for 1965-66. He explained he did not believe the people could afford a 6 mill raise in taxes "at this time." Jack Lott of Beat 4 seconded Kellar's motion. Lone dissenting vote came from H.G. Dean of Beat 1, who spearheaded the go-ahead given the building plan give July 19. The board's attorney, Lucien M. Gex, advised that there was serious doubts any new efforts could be made within two years for a bond issue for the Courthouse if the notice of intention was rescinded. More than one hour was devoted to a group of downtown Bay-St. Louis businessmen who sought a full detailing of constructions and asked that the bonds be put up for a referendum.

OLA defeats Long Beach for Classic title

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

Overall, there were 16 teams competing for the 4th annual Gulf Coast Kickoff Classic title over the weekend, which was won by Our Lady Academy over Long Beach in the championship match. This is OLA's third classic title in four years. The classic was sponsored by State Farm Insurance and its local agents, who also provided t-shirts to all coaches and players.

All the teams from the Coast that play volleyball, plus Oak Grove, converged on the OLA campus for the two-day tournament that consisted of pool play before a semi-final and final round.

OLA, Vancleave, Long Beach and Ocean Springs advanced to the semi-final round. OLA (11-0) was paired up with Ocean Springs in the first semi-final match. The Crescents defeated the Lady Greyhounds in two games 25-14 and 25-11.

Long Beach paired up with Vancleave in the other semi-final contest with the match going the full three games. Long Beach won a spot in the finals with the scores of 25-21, 19-25 and 25-23.

In the finals, OLA dominated the first game 25-14 but fought point-for-point with Long Beach in the second game before winning 26-24.

OLA head coach Mike Meyers stated, "We jumped out ahead in the first game against Long Beach. In the second game, we came out passive but were able to turn things around and pull out the win. Overall, there were 16 teams that played a total of 27 matches in a 24-hour period. The gym was full both days. The quality of volleyball is growing by leaps and bounds. There are many people who don't realize how exciting volleyball is. We had quality matches throughout the tournament."

In the championship match for OLA, Shelly Reboul and Sarah Loiacano led the team in assists with 7 each. Kaylee Schmitt paced OLA with 9 kills followed by Amanda Meyers and Lakasia Duckworth with 7 points each.

Vancleave advanced to the semi-finals with wins over Bay High, Gautier and Biloxi. In pool play, Bay High lost to Vancleave 19-25 and 11-25 before defeating Biloxi 25-7 and 25-18. The Lady Tigers defeated Gautier on Saturday.

Long Beach reached the semi-finals with wins over Mercy Cross (25-14, 12-25, 25-17), Resurrection (25-9, 25-7) and East Central (25-23, 25-22).

Ocean Springs advanced to the semi-finals with wins over Gulfport, Oak Grove and Pass Christian.

Hancock lost to St. Martin and OLA in the classic but defeated Pascagoula in pool play while Pass Christian lost to Gulfport, Oak Grove and Ocean Springs.

In high school volleyball action on Tuesday, August 23rd Bay High defeated Oak Grove at home. The Lady Tigers (6-2) dropped the first game 24-26 before winning the next three 25-12, 25-16 and 25-20 to claim the win.

Bay High head coach Gina Pepperman commented, "The team is still coming together. They are adapting and adjusting. The first game was one in which we did not play well at all. The next three games, we did much better as a team."

The Lady Tigers received some good net play from Tamara Reed and Destiny Flood who led the team with 13 kills. Lindsay Trotter and Jessica Johnson sparked the Lady Tigers at times from the floor. Hannah Johnson and Brooke Lichenstein served and hit well for the Lady Tigers in the win.

The Bay High junior varsity (2-2) recorded a win over Oak Grove with scores of 25-16 and 25-17.

Bay High travels to Gulfport on Thursday evening for a match with the Lady Admirals at 6 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Mississippi high school football hits 100 years old on Friday night

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

It may not represent the time of year that it is associated with temperature-wise, but football season is finally here.

This year is special in the high school ranks because Mississippi high school football turns 100 years old. The first game was played between Yazoo City and Winona back in 1905. Yazoo City defeated Winona in that inaugural game 5-0 and Mississippi football has not looked back.

Football, especially high school football, has become something more than just a game in Mississippi. It has become a blood tradition for some families who have several generations starring on the gridiron. For some communities, it is the fabric by which the community is held together.

In our area, all four teams take to the gridiron with the hopes and dreams of every player wanting to touch that golden ball the first week in December.

The Bay High Tigers will travel about 12 minutes north on Highway 603 to renew an old rivalry with cross-county foe Hancock. The game promises to be a good one with the power running style of Hancock meeting the hard-hitting linebacking corps of Bay High. Hancock will throw running backs Mark Fairley, Ronnie Thomas and Andrew Smith at Tiger linebacks Corey Thornton, Trevor Adam and Kyle Moran.

Calling signals on the offense will be Brandon Necaise and Tyler Brush for Hancock and Bay High, respectively. Colin Miller, Russell Tanguis and Donavan Saucier are back in the trenches for Hancock as are Teddy Morris, Grannison Sellier and Henry Monti for Bay High.

Pass Christian takes to the road for their first game of the year. And, it is quite a ride for the Pirates who are cruising all the way to Florence.

The Pirates are looking to ride senior workhorse Jaren Bowser as far as he can take them. Chad Moore is back under center calling signals and will be protected by Joseph Prima and Grey Provost among others.

A.J. Swanier and Dahlyn Saucier will roam the defense side of the ball along with free safety Brandon Riley. Jonathon Willis has been a gem of a kicker for Pass Christian the last two years and the Pirates are looking for more of the same.

The Rock-a-chaws of St. Stanislaus will begin their 90th season of football 'in between the walls' in the friendly confines of the Brother Philip Memorial Athletic Complex against first-time opponent Wilkinson County.

The Rocks return a large percentage of their offense from last season's record-setting group. Lance Cuevas returns under center with his trusty backfield mate Josh Duplessis. The entire offensive line of J.C. Brignone, Buddy Schultz, Bryce Morreale, Caleb McQueen and Matt Matrangola are back to provide protection. Defensively, Brignone anchors the down linemen while Mike Deifik and Brennan Gordon patrol from the linebacker position. Zach Elkins is the lone returning defensive back in the secondary for SSC.

Mississippi has had names like Manning, Rice, Favre and Payton grace the hallowed ground of Mississippi's Friday night shrines.

Is there a senior star rising for Bay High, Hancock, Pass High or SSC?

Or could it be the often over-looked and wide-eyed freshman or sophomore that needs just one play to make his name shine in the lights?

Come on out to the service that begins on Friday night at 7 p.m. to see if there is a faint, but growing, chant like "Archie! Archie!" floating in the air. Come out and see if there is grace in motion like Rice or Payton. The 100th birthday party is about to begin and you don't want to be late.

See you at the game!

Audubon Aquarium offers Sea Turtle Expedition to benefit rescue program

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Audubon Aquarium of the Americas is offering a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to allow animal enthusiasts to literally take part in the release of endangered sea turtles.

On Thursday, September 8, a busload of people will journey to Fourchon, Louisiana to release four endangered sea turtles back into the wild. The bus will depart from Audubon Aquarium of the Americas early in the morning and will return in the afternoon. On the bus, participants will be able to talk with animal staff, ask questions, and learn about sea turtles before loading onto a boat and heading off into the Gulf of Mexico with the turtles. Lunch will also be included on the bus ride to the dock. While the sea turtles were undergoing rehabilitation at the Aquarium, guests were able to see them on exhibit. One of the four turtles being released is a rare hybrid turtle - the result of cross-species breeding between a Green Sea Turtle and a Hawksbill Sea Turtle. A hybrid of this type has never been seen before at the Aquarium and is only rarely seen in the wild. It will be outfitted with a satellite tag so people can follow its travels in the Gulf of Mexico. The three other turtles set for release are Kemp's, Ridley Sea Turtles.

The Aquarium is the coordinator of the Louisiana Marine Mammal and Sea Turtle Rescue Program (LA MM&STRP) and has specially trained staff to handle stranded and rescued animals. The LA MM&STRP is a volunteer organization that supports the development and dissemination of new knowledge to support the conservation of wild species. Some animals cared for by the LA MM&STRP include a bottlenose dolphin with a catfish spine piercing through its esophagus and a green sea turtle whose shell was crushed due to a boat strike. Those who want to help can participate in beach, stream and roadside cleanups as well as taking time to recycle and dispose of litter properly. Donations are also accepted at the Aquarium to mitigate the high costs of animal rehabilitation. Those who find stranded or injured marine mammals or sea turtles can report them to the Rescue Team by calling (504) 378-2580.

Space for the Sea Turtle Expedition is limited. Reservations are required. Tickets are $100 and can be purchased by calling (504) 378-2515. Anyone 10 years old and older is able to participate. For more information, please email Tom Dyer, Aquarium Aviculturist, at tdyer@auduboninstitute.org

Loveless & Byrd to perform at Bay Magic

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Country music super stars Patty Loveless and Tracy Byrd perform at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on Friday, September 30 at 9 p.m. Tickets for this once-in-a-lifetime concert event start at just $19.95 and are available through the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet. Premium seating and hotel packages are also available.

Patty Loveless' musical dreams began as a child in Pikeville, Kentucky. Loveless, a coal miner's daughter, started playing guitar at age 11, signed her first recording contract in 1987 and has produced 14 Top Ten hits. Gifted with an unfailing ear, she has built a 20-year career around exceptional songs. What country music jukebox would be the same without "Blame It On Your Heart," "How Can I Help You say Goodbye?," "Here I Am," "You Don't Even Know Who I Am," "Halfway Down," or "You Can Feel Bad."

The Country Music Awards honored Loveless with the "Female Vocalist of the Year" and "Album of the Year" awards for When Fallen Angels Fly, and the Academy of Country Music recognized her as "Female Vocalist of the Year" for two consecutive years.

"I feel much more confident these days in the way I approach a song," says Loveless. "On my last few records, I've just let myself feel a sense of freedom and trust. I've made a lot of records and I feel fortunate to be able to continue making them. So now I think, 'I just want to flow with it. Enjoy it.'"

On Loveless' latest album, Dreamin' My Dreams, the joy is infectious. With a crew of the industry's finest musicians including her husband, Emory Gordy, Jr., Loveless' music reflects the vital richness of an artist at the height of her powers.

The title track from Tracy Byrd's ninth album, The Truth About Men, is a hit already. Men and women alike have been singing along with the anthem about gender differences when Byrd performs it live. But there's more fun where that one comes from on his latest album. Tracy points to "Drinking Bone," "How'd I Wind Up in Jamaica," "Baby Put Your Clothes On," and a rollicking, live version of "Ten Rounds With Jose Cuervo," captured in El Paso, as evidence that he's back in the good-time niche his fans love best.

"You go back through the years with 'Holdin' Heaven,' 'Lifestyles of the Not So Rich and Famous,' 'Watermelon Crawl' and 'I'm From the Country'—those kind of songs have always done real well for me," says Byrd.

After an experimental detour on his 1999 release, It's About Time, Tracy got back to the tried and true for Ten Rounds, issued in 2001. His success with the single "Ten Rounds With Jose Cuervo" told him his fans craved the upbeat sing-alongs.

"That was in my mind going back into the studio," he says. "I wanted to cut some more fun records. Number one, they seem to work at radio for me. Number two, I tour a lot—I still do 110 dates a year—and I love having those kinds of songs in the show. They just seem to be my niche."

Which is not to say that Byrd has forsaken ballads and songs with emotional depth. This is, after all, the guy who cut one of the most moving ballads of the 1990s, "The Keeper of the Stars."

Tracy has lived for 16 years in nearby Beaumont, Texas, with his wife, Michelle, and kids Evee, Logan and Jared. He gives back to the community with his annual Tracy Byrd Homecoming Weekend, held on the last weekend in March. A fishing tournament, concert and golf tournament raise money for the Children's Miracle Network; the proceeds have also underwritten the Tracy Byrd Hyperbaric Medicine and Wound Care Center at Christus St. Elizabeth Hospital in Beaumont.

In addition to his philanthropic activities, Tracy hosts the Mossy Oak's Hunting the Country TV show on ESPN2. "I love making music, and I love this job," he says. "It doesn't feel like one, and never has. I just absolutely still get fidgety and tickled about going in the studio and making records, and about going on stage. It's great to wake up and love your job like that."

Don't miss Patty Loveless & Tracy Byrd at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis on September 30th!

Must be at least 21 to attend.

The Funky Rose is a unique blend of shops and artists in addition to Renee's line of hip clothing coming straight from L.A.

September celebrates Funky Rose's one year anniversary. The business has grown to now include hip maternity clothing and several new designer clothes at very affordable prices. We also now include religious gifts to continue the ministry that the previous owner of Heaven began.

Born and raised in New Orleans, Renee considers herself a Mississippi girl at heart. Memories of summers spent on the Coast with her six siblings, parents and grandparents drew her back to the area to raise her own four children. Renee's grandmother, Rosalie, called Rose for short, fostered in her granddaughter a love of fashion and shared her secret desire to pursue a career in that field. It is Renee's dream that her grandmother's creative, vivacious spirit lives on in her namesake store, The Funky Rose.

Welcome to the Scroll Shop!
My name is Jennifer Wright. I live with my husband in Long Beach and have been woodworking for many years. I do a lot of scroll saw projects, from scenes to puzzles to desk clocks, in all themes imaginable. Along with my scrolling, I also do woodturnings on the lathe.
By more popular demand, my hobby has become more of a small business than a past-time. Living in the Bible belt and in a beach resort area provides an insatiable market for my woodworking. Religious themes are very popular, and crosses and angels are some of my most requested items. Sea going themes are also very popular. And since we all love our pets, my dog silhouettes provide a great way to honor our four-legged family members. I have many projects to honor other-legged pets, as well, such as the two-legged ones like parrots, or no-legged pets like fish and snakes. Each of my projects is unique. No two are ever made the same, even when I try to duplicate my previous efforts.
Please browse through my website. There are literally thousands of themes available though only a few of my projects are shown on the website. If you don't find what you're looking for, chances are I can make it for you. If you have an item or project you would like with special personalization, such as a name or favorite phrase, let me know and I'll do my best to work with you.

Meet Kathy Finn. "Find what you love to do and do it" is a phrase a lot of experts use to help people find their calling in life. I have to say that "I love" having a shop. There are so many facets to being a business person. It suits me perfectly because of the diversity. Setting up the shop and displays fulfill artist space in my heart. The sale of things for the home keeps me somehow bonded to the ties of being a mother and wife for 40 years. The nature of retail and having customers visit the shop fulfill my social nature. And then the business aspect, the bookkeeping, advertising, correspondence and business affiliations keep the learning process going. I also feel a certain sense of service to the community and to my customers that is very satisfying.

I like to think that our shop is a pleasant environment with wonderful things. People come to visit. Then they just happen to find things they can't live without or buy for someone important to them.

With two kids, numerous dogs and horses and a thriving business, Mary Ann Strickland is busier than any one person should be, but somehow, she does it all with a smile and great success.

Six years ago, the Strickland family and George Gilmore took an old grocery store and post office in the Kiln and started Coastal Hardware, which carries not only hardware, but also pet supplies, horse supplies, boots and clothing.

Last year, The Hancock County Board of Supervisors recognized Strickland's Coastal Hardware & Rental Co. as the Kiln Area Business of the Year.

And it's easy to see why. The store appeals to a broad spectrum of people, and is enjoyed by men, women and young people. It carries something for everyone and every hobby they might have. And, Mary Ann says, "There is always someone at the store who can help you and/or find what you may need."

Mary Ann also recently started "Spirit of the Painted Pony," a store-in-a-whole which features special gift items and western wear for horse show moms and their children. She takes the store to horse shows all around the country, yet still finds time to give back to the community by supporting various riding clubs, churches and educational and athletic programs.

WILDLIFE MISSISSIPPI IS STILL A GREAT INVESTMENT, EVEN IN DOWN TIMES

WE CALL IT...A BULL MARKET FOR BEARS

In 1902 when President Theodore Roosevelt refused to shoot a black bear roped and tied in the vast swamps of Mississippi, the land was pristine. This widely reported story became a part of Roosevelt's legacy as a conservationist. Like Roosevelt, Wildlife Mississippi believes in investing time and energy in solving natural resource problems. This approach differentiates us from other organizations.

As a member of our Theodore Roosevelt Society, you will be a visionary donor who is really doing something about the environment. Your gift of $5,000 or more will have an enormous effect on the Foundation's mission - from restoring longleaf pine in South Mississippi to native prairies filled with bobwhite quail in Northeast Mississippi to bottomland hardwoods in the Delta. Your generous contribution, at any level, will help establish the Theodore Roosevelt National Wildlife Refuge and the Holt Collier Wildlife Interpretation and Education Center. This project will improve Mississippi's quality of life for generations to come and for a few bears as well.

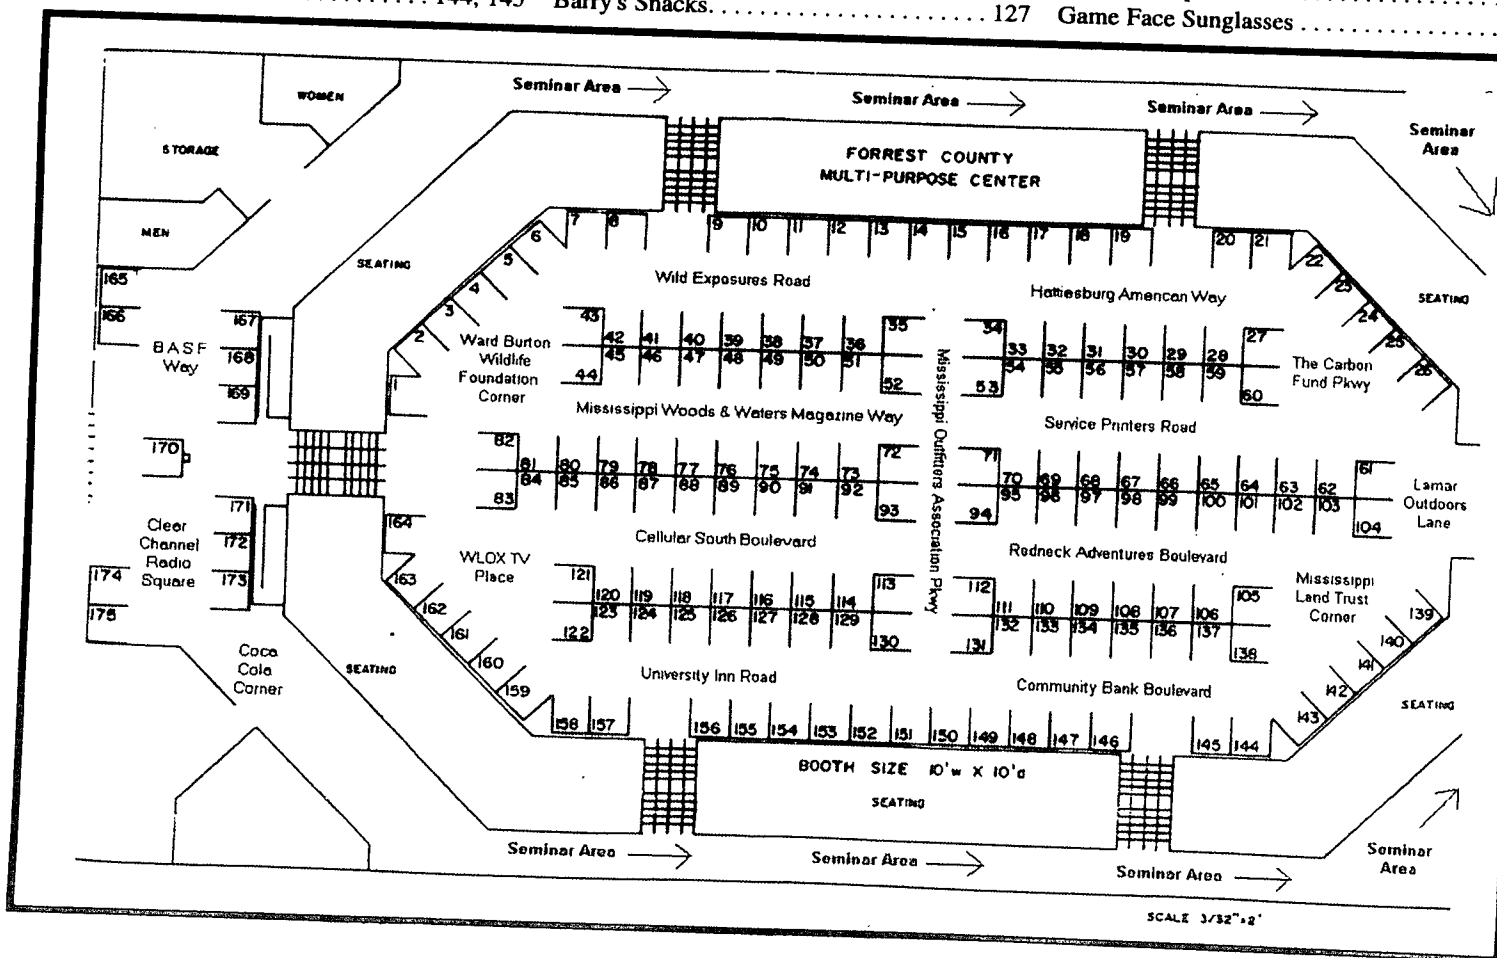

Consider making Mississippi a better place to live and work by joining the Theodore Roosevelt Society. For more information, contact James L. Cummins, Executive Director, at (662) 686-3375 or email him at jcummins@wildlifemiss.org.

The demonstrations performed at The Bass Tub are popular whether you fish or not. Photo by The Bass Tub.

The Bass Tub, a 5,000-gallon portable fish tank, will once again be at the Expo. Stocked with fish native to Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, the huge tank of fish, is a live classroom for anglers. One of its primary goals is to educate as well as entertain the fishing enthusiast and those who don't know about what lurks in area waters.

More than just an aquarium of huge fish like those in zoos, "One of its primary goals is to educate and entertain the angler," said Judd Brooke, one of the Foundation's Trustees and a resident of Hancock County.

Spectators will get a "fish eye view" of how fish act around different types of underwater environments. Brooke says that kids come to stare at the lunker bass in the tank while adults come to be amazed by the different species of the area.

The aquarium is stocked with largemouth bass, striped bass, white bass, walleye, crappie, bluegill, channel catfish, flathead catfish, blue catfish and some other unusual species native to South Mississippi.

The water in the tank is tap water that has been treated to simulate area lake conditions. The water temperature is usually 60-65 degrees. There are artificial "logs" and other structures that show how fish congregate under water included in the huge display.

BRING YOUR BUCK TO THE EXPO

Just a sampling of the mounts brought to the Expo for scoring. Photo by the Mississippi Fish and Wildlife Foundation.

The Magnolia Records Program scoring system developed for use in Mississippi is identical to that used by the Boone & Crockett and Pope & Young Clubs. All whitetail deer taken legally in Mississippi are eligible. To be eligible for the Magnolia Records Program antlers must meet the minimum requirements of 125 – Typical or 155 – Non-typical. Entries meeting the minimum requirements will be entered into the Magnolia Records Program and will receive an official certificate. Scoring will take place on Saturday.

To have an entry scored, just bring it to the Expo at the Forrest County Multi Purpose Center between 3 and 9 p.m. on Friday, August 26 or from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, August 27. In order for your entry to be scored, you must leave it until Sunday, August 28. NO EXCEPTIONS.

Anyone bringing their mount to be scored will receive a free pass to return to the Expo on Sunday to pick up their mount. There will be ample space provided to have his or her whitetail deer on display throughout the weekend.

JOIN WILDLIFE MISSISSIPPI. SUPPORT CONSERVATION

April 15 doesn't have to be painful again next year. Instead, it can be a day you celebrate both your tax savings and the satisfaction of conserving important fish and wildlife habitat in Mississippi because you became a member of Wildlife Mississippi.

It is very important to us, as Mississippians, that our children, and grandchildren, can enjoy the majesty of Mississippi's forests, waters and wildlife. If we don't, our future quality of life will suffer. Because we have to compete with other states and other countries in order to attract new industry and businesses to Mississippi, we have to factor quality of life in the equation. More and more, quality of life involves the outdoors and country-style living. Everything we do at Wildlife Mississippi fits that description and this is helping Mississippi grow in a variety of ways.

So it is pretty important that we conserve our beautiful lakes, streams, forests, fish and wildlife. To help conserve these natural treasures that are so abundant in our state today, we're asking you to join Wildlife Mississippi. It is more than just another environmental organization. It is a no frills, cost-conscious, low-overhead organization that works to balance

Mississippi's conservation with its economic growth. Plus, we're down to earth and spend all of our funds on conservation projects right here at home. Our mission is to protect, restore and enhance Mississippi's natural resources for generations to come. If you will take a moment to review our website at www.wildlifemiss.org, you will see for yourself who we are and what we are about.

When it comes to conserving our fish and wildlife resources, we believe that a quality environment and a strong economy must go hand in hand. In the Third world, many countries are destroying their environment because they have a weak economy and cannot afford a quality job of environmental enhancement. We must maintain a strong economy so we can afford to take care of our natural resources. It's as simple as that.

We know our economy is slow, but we must work together to conserve the irreplaceable natural resources of our beautiful Mississippi. If we don't, we'll have fewer bass, ducks, deer, turkey and backyard wildlife. And that is what makes Mississippi a great place to live – fantastic hunting, fishing and wildlife viewing.

We're proud of what Wildlife Mississippi is doing. With additional members, we can do more. Wildlife Mississippi needs your help to make Mississippi a land our children, and grandchildren, can enjoy. Please consider becoming a member. You may want to join at the $25 level, the $1,000 level or somewhere in between. But whatever you do, become a part of the Wildlife Mississippi team today.

For a membership brochure and information, go to our website at www.wildlifemiss.org, call us at (662) 686-3375 or write us at PO Box 10, Stoneville, MS 38776.

With your help, we will continue to make a difference in the future of Mississippi.

BUNGEE JUMP COMING TO EXPO

This year children will have to opportunity to once again jump on the Bungee Jump. It was a huge success last year for children of all ages.

The Bungee Jump is a trailer equipped with two trampolines. The children put on a harness that is hooked to bungee cords. This allows them to jump as high as 24 feet. They can also turn front and back flips. There is no age requirement, but there is a weight requirement. The minimum weight is 40 pounds and the maximum weight is 170 pounds.

HOW TO TALK DOG

Bill Matney, of B.I.C. Productions, will be at the Expo doing seminars on "How To Talk Dog." Bill has been a "teacher of sorts" training people how to do "stuff" for over 25 years. For years Bill focused on Loss Prevention for commercial operations and on Fire and Emergency Services specializing in technical rope rescue, confined space and swift water rescue training.

In 1997 Bill needed an assistant to do what no human could do, so he trained a dog "Hydro" to pull ropes through small openings so that trapped people could pull in food and water. He trained his dogs to rescue people from the water and to retrieve and carry rescue equipment. Training dogs was as easy as breathing to Bill and soon others wanted to know how he did it and the rest is history. Bill has appeared on the Late Show with David Letterman and Pet Stars in California.

In his "How To Talk Dog" seminars, Bill will take you on a journey into the mind of your dog to help better understand how they learn. No lofty ideas, just plain simple and straight forward discussion on how to talk dog. Bill shows you how to communicate with your dog with practical principles and positive displacement that teach you how to teach your dog to behave and also do neat tricks.

HANDS ON TURKEY CALLING FOR KIDS AND BEGINNERS

On Saturday, August 27 at 1:00 p.m., Paul Meek, a veteran turkey call, fishing lure, deer lure and scents manufacturer, will once again present a unique seminar for kids and beginners on turkey calling. It was a big success last year and he is looking forward to more participants this year. He will have a short discussion on how to make turkey call sounds then each participant attending the seminar will have the opportunity to put different calls in their hands and practice with them. Each participant will be presented a personalized certificate of completion.

Paul, along with his two sons, Shawn, who was a Mississippi State Champion, and P.W., a five-time Mississippi Open Champion, together have probably taught more kids and beginners how to turkey call than anyone!

VANDEVENTER GIVES SEMINAR ON SNAKES

Back by popular demand, Terry Vandeventer will once again talk snakes to attendees of the Expo. A professional herpetologist, Vandeventer will display his live reptiles and snakes each day and present lectures and demonstrations on snakes native to South Mississippi so Expo attendees can learn about their life habits, their effects on people, good and bad, and the history behind each snake. His demonstrations and lectures have been a big hit with everyone the past several years, even those that don't like snakes.

Vandeventer has hunted and studied reptiles throughout the United States, as well as around the world. Over 75,000 people see his live snake and reptile demonstrations each year.

If you missed it last year, here's your chance!

FOOD SAFETY FOR DEER MEAT

Kevin Dufrene, owner of The Specialty Kitchen, a deer processing and specialty items business, will present a seminar on "Food Safety For Deer Meat" at 5:00 p.m. on Saturday. Kevin has been involved in the food business for over 26 years, as a government regulator, Independent Food Safety Consultant and now as a business owner.

"Food Safety For Deer Meat" will raise your awareness of proper handling and boning techniques by providing the dos and don'ts from dressing your deer to proper storage. Offering handling tips, visual aids, handouts and a question and answer period to ensure the deer you harvest can be enjoyed by family and friends.

When you go to the seminar, be sure to register for the free tamale processing that will be given away at the seminar. Everyone attending the Expo is also invited to go by their booth and register for a free deer processing that will be given away Sunday.

FALCONRY TO BE DEMONSTRATED

This year several falconers, and their birds, will be at the Expo. Michael Musgrave formerly of Wiggins, Robert Bell of Inverness and David Hall of Brandon will all be at the Expo. They will be doing seminars on falconry. The purpose of their seminars is to discuss the sport of falconry and the state and federal regulations concerning it.

These birds are not "pets" they are hunting partners. Even though there is a strong devotion to the birds, the birds are free to go anytime they enter the field to hunt.

If you have any questions about falconry, ask Michael, Robert or David at their seminars or stop by their booth at the Expo. They will be happy to "talk hawks" with you.

CONSERVATION EASEMENTS SAVE TAX DOLLARS

The conservation of wildlife habitat plays an important role for South Mississippi as well as our entire state and nation. And more importantly, for our children and grandchildren.

Conservation easements are one of the most landowner friendly conservation tools available for those wishing to preserve a particular conservation ethic on a specific piece of land. Easements enable a landowner to protect natural habitats on their property while at the same time, taking advantage of potentially substantial federal tax benefits.

Internal Revenue Service, recognizes the conveyance of a real property interest to a qualified conservation organization to accomplish a specific purpose has public benefits and as such could qualify the owner for a substantial tax deduction.

The easiest way to understand conservation easements is to look at the basic rights that come with owning land. When a conservation easement is placed on a property, the owner may give up certain rights (e.g., developing the property, etc.).

property, even after the landowner dies or sells the property.

There are three important aspects of any conservation easement that must be met. First, the easement must meet a definite conservation purpose. The primary purpose, in most cases, would be the protection and/or restoration of primarily hardwood habitats. Second, in order to qualify as a conservation easement under the Uniform Act, the easement must be granted to or be held by a "qualified conservation organization," such as the Mississippi Land Trust (www.misslandtrust.org).

It is important to note that the conservation organization which holds the easement does not actually acquire the rights donated by the conservation easement. Rather, the easement gives the organization the right and responsibility to monitor and enforce the restrictions placed on the property and ensure adherence to the easement document.

A third, but equally important aspect of the easement process is the development of what is referred to as a baseline ecological assessment. It is an ecological "snapshot" of the property. Except for the restrictions described by the easement, the property owner retains all other rights which were conveyed when the property was purchased. Hunting, fishing, wildlife viewing and timber management can still be conducted. Conservation easements do not allow public access to the property.

When one places a conservation easement on a piece of property, the owner can be assured that the property will remain in a natural state forever. The property owner is rewarded by the fact that the easement will promote his or her conservation ethic while receiving immediate tax benefits.

Mississippi has seen significant growth in the past several years, attracting new businesses and residents, as well as tourists. But the very reason many people call Mississippi their home is our rich history and bountiful wildlife habitat. Conservation easements are increasingly being recognized as a desirable tool for landowners interested in protecting their property. We must actively preserve these unique characteristics of our state, not only for our quality of life, but future generations as well.

As in any conservation program, it is best to seek the advice of fish and wildlife and tax professionals with experience in the development of conservation easements.

For more information on conservation easements, write the Mississippi Land Trust at P.O. Box 23, Stoneville, MS 38776 or visit their web site at www.misslandtrust.org.

Mississippi is one of several states that have adopted a Uniform Conservation Easement Act. Under the Act, a landowner can place restrictions on the present and future uses of their property with the intent of preserving conservation practices.

Furthermore, the federal government, specifically the Restrictions on the property are specified in the easement document, the conveyance of which must be made in perpetuity in order to receive federal tax benefits. The easement document itself is a legal instrument that is signed and recorded in the county of record. Since the conservation easement runs with the land forever, the restrictions continue with the
